FROM THE PENNSYLVANIA PACKET.
To the FREEHOLDERS and FREEMEN
In PENNSYLVANIA.

It is certainly very difficult to fix the precise limits to which Scepticism may be extended; for the more we are acquainted with the trade of life, the more reason we have to doubt whether any story is too improbable, or too absurd, to be doubted. Events may be noted in our own recollection, so very outré, so far out of the line of all probable conjecture, that they are not to be accounted for on the principles of reason. The authors of them probably are void of reason, for Quis Deus cultu perdere prius dementat.

Men become fools before their destruction. The commission lately granted by the East-India Company to certain gentlemen in Philadelphia, to sell Tea on their account, is one of those events which could hardly be suspected; and the execution of that commission, whenever it is executed, will be a story to which posterity must listen with equal wonder and indignation. Not many years ago the Americans rose up as one man, to resist the accursed thing called a Stamp Act. Europe saw and admired our manly opposition. The slaves of despotism in every quarter uttered their trembling applause, and thus confessed that liberty was still dear to their remembrance, though they had long since forsaken their habitation. An act of parliament imposing duties on Paper, Glass, Painters Colours and Tea, like some deadly foe, spread another general terror through all the colonies, and for that reason the resistance was also general. Our merchants, seeming to forget the calls and necessities of wife and child, and every private solicitation of interest, stopped short in the career of business, and gave up the whole trade by which they were supported. The consequence was a removal of the duty from those articles which are in some measure necessary to our commerce; whence business returned to its usual channel: Tea was an article no how necessary to our comfortable subsistence, it is an article of luxury, therefore the duty was retained on Tea; but it was retained rather to save appearances, by holding up the rod of Parliament, than from any probability that we should ever be such dupes as to buy that execrable plant, and thereby establish a precedent more fatal to liberty than ever Tea has proved to the lives of women. Did the Minister suppose that we are so far degenerated as to desire the luxuries more than the necessities of life, that we should desire Tea above all things, and thus fall into his net through the want of virtue? Whatever his expectations may have been, it appears that we have subsisted very well for some years without importing any of his Tea, and the revenue act, like a harmless blade, has begun to rust in its scabbard. Was it to be conjectured after such repeated, vigorous and successful efforts in favour of liberty, that the Americans themselves should presently become the instruments of their own destruction; that men should be found in Philadelphia who are willing, for paltry hire, to give force and efficacy to those schemes of oppression which we have hitherto opposed at the hazard of fortune and life itself. Esau is branded in history because he sold his birthright for a morsel of bread; but he continued free, and so did his posterity. Esau's character will rise in our esteem, if we should find men who are willing to sell themselves and their posterity into bondage and slavery, for the same pitiful reward. The very supposition seems to stare Probability in the face; it is so gross and unnatural, that a Monk would not believe it unless the facts were presented to his view. Surely there is not a man in North America so lost to virtue and common sense as to doubt whether the revenue acts are totally destructive of liberty; whether they should be opposed by every man who loves his country. The question has been so clearly discussed, and the conclusion so firmly established by our Farmers, that we need not say any thing on this subject. Taking for granted then that the revenue acts are opposite to the very idea and spirit of liberty, it will naturally follow, that a ship, loaded with goods, which come under one of those acts, is the true and literal Pandora's box, filled with poverty, oppression, slavery, and every other hated disease. Where then shall the man be found, who is hardy enough to open the box and turn out those diseases on his devoted country? Nothing surely but the hopes of obtaining some lucrative post under government, could ever tempt any man to be guilty of such paricide, since the pure emoluments they may reap from this Tea facorage, are not like to be very considerable, else I pity the condition of our merchants: for as soon as shopkeepers & other people consent to buy Tea that is sent from England under the auspices of a revenue act, every merchant will immediately import Tea on his own account, and there will be no longer use for those factors; having brought this country to a state of servitude, their further services will not be needed. But if the Company should find their advantage in retaining the monopoly of Tea in the colonies, the facorage will be a profitable and very convenient office, into which some of their particular friends will be fixed, as soon as our countrymen have weathered the storm and removed the difficulties of executing the business. Nor is this the worst of what we are to fear: It is the very introduction and beginning of our calamities. Whenever the Tea is swallowed, and pretty well digested, we shall have new duties imposed on other articles of commerce; they too will be vended by another set of factors. These engines and tools of government, these vultures who feed on the vitals of liberty, will multiply and increase in every city and village through the continent: They will be ready at every call to support the worst measures that can be proposed by the very worst of Ministers: Thus opposition shall soon be at an end, and the groans of expiring liberty shall not be uttered in safety. There is something peculiarly savage in the temper of those creatures who are nourished by the blood of their country. No wolf was ever so keen to devour his prey, as the wretches at Boston have lately been to devour their countrymen by taxes, debts and standing armies. Ubi pa 263-277, Vol. 2.

Quid facient domini, audient quum talia fures? What will a legion of those creatures do, when four or five of them have attempted so much? Like the locusts and caterpillars of Egypt, they will come up into our houses and our chests; they will devour every green thing on the face of the earth. As to the gentlemen who are going to introduce the business of selling this inauspicious Tea, I humbly presume the utmost of their ambition is a comfortable post under the government: For they have observed that our fellow-subjects have constantly been rewarded in proportion to the general contempt they had brought on themselves, by attempting to ruin this country; at which rate the Tea factors are like to have pretty large claims. It is reported that ware-houses are already provided in Philadelphia, where this goodly Tea is to be stored till the minds of people are cooled a little. I dare say these houses are properly constructed; they must be great curiosities; doubtless they are built of stone, or petrified wood called alabaster, in which case they will be secured from trifling accidents, for like the Salamander they might pass through the fire and not be consumed. Here let us mark it down, that after all our cries of liberty, and all our struggles in her defence, the execrated ministerial tax was suffered to make a public and peaceful entry. The engines of oppression were suffered to take root and flourish among us. It is even reported that some of them were born in this province. O my Country, my Country! it is high time you should suffer, if you have already given birth to monsters. Though I have no acquaintance with the factors, nor with their former characters, if it is true that they have accepted this execrable commission, we do not require any further information concerning them: This knowledge is sufficient, provided we also know what is expected of us. It is expected that we, the devoted inhabitants of North America, should fold our arms and look on tamely, while destruction comes upon us like an armed man. Perhaps it is expected that we should lay hold of a rope and help to draw the ship with her precious cargo to the side of a wharf. This conduct would not be altogether without a precedent. The Trojans did an action almost as bad: They drew a horse into their city full of armed men, by whom they were presently destroyed. But they were as for their pains, for had they burnt the horse where they found him, their city might have escaped the flames. Why should the world complain of slavery, since there have been men in all ages who have degenerated into that submissive, pusillanimous temper, which properly qualifies them for a state of poverty and servitude? Are my countrymen so far degenerated? Have they lost all the spirit of their ancestors? Shall millions of freemen bow down their necks and suffer the yoke of slavery to be rivetted by a few of their fellow subjects, by men whom nature, or the God of nature, has not distinguished from themselves, unless by making them more wicked? But I am tired of this subject. My spirits sicken when I trace the distant scene. I will view it no longer.

A COUNTRYMAN.

From the NEW-YORK GAZETTE, October 21.

The celebrated Doctor William Robertson, author of the histories of Scotland and of the Age of Charles V. who will, it is expected, this winter, gratify the world with a history of America, has favoured a few of his friends with a sight of that work in manuscript. In treating of the conquest of Canada, and the Administration of Mr. Secretary Pitt, now Earl of Chatham, he has the following passage, which was received on Tuesday last, and he has very kindly permitted us to publish it.

THE CHARACTER OF THE EARL OF CHATHAM.

THE Secretary stood alone. Modern degeneracy had not reached him. Original, and unaccommodating, the features of his character had the hardness of antiquity. His august mind over-awed majesty, and one of his Sovereigns thought royalty impaired in his presence that he conspired to remove him, in order to be relieved from his superiority. No state chicanery, no narrow system of vicious politics, no idle content for ministerial vassals, sunk him to the vulgar level of the great; but overbearing, persuasive, and impracticable, his object was England, his ambition was fame. Without dividing, he destroyed party; without conspiring, he made a venal age unanimous. France sunk beneath him. With one hand he smote the House of Bourbon, and wielded in the other the demagogue of England. The light of his mind was infinite, and his schemes were to effect, not England, not the present age, only, but Europe and posterity. Wonderful were the means by which these schemes were accomplished; always reasonable, always adequate, the suggestions of an understanding, animated by ardour, and enlightened by prophecy.

The ordinary feelings which make life amiable and indolent, those sensations which soften and allure and vulgarize, were unknown to him. No domestic difficulties, no domestic comforts, reached him; but aloof from the sordid occurrences of life, and untroubled by its intercourse, he came occasionally into our system to counsel, and to decide.

A character so exalted, so strenuous, so various, so authoritative, afforded a corrupt age, and the Treasury trembled at the name of Pitt, through all her efforts of venality. Corruption imagined, indeed, that she had found defects in this statesman, and talked much of the inconsistency of his glory, and much of the value of his victories; but the history of his country, and the calamities of the enemy, answered and refuted her.

Nor were his political abilities his only talents. His eloquence was an era in the senate, peculiar and spontaneous, familiarly expressing gigantic sentiments and instinctive wisdom. Not like the torrent of Demosthenes, or the splendid conflagration of Tully, it resembled the thunders of the thunder, and sometimes the music of the spheres. Like Murray, he did not conduct the understanding through the painful subtilty of argumentation; nor was he, like Townshend, forever on the rack of excitation, but rather lightened upon the subject, and reached the point by the flashings of his mind, which, like those of his eye, were felt, but could not be followed.

Upon the whole, there was in this man something that could create, subvert or reform; an understanding, a spirit, and an eloquence, to summon mankind to society, or to break the bonds of slavery, and to rule the wilderness of Irem with unbounded authority; something that could establish or overwhelm empire, and strike a blow in the world that should rebound thro' its history.

Wednesday there was a numerous assembly of the inhabitants of this and the neighbouring towns, at Liberty Tree, agreeable to a notification that had been the day before issued. To hear the persons to whom the tea shipped by the East India Company is consigned, make a public renunciation of their office as consignees, upon oath — and also swear that they will reship any teas that may be consigned to them by said company, by the first vessel sailing for London. The assembly having waited till twelve o'clock, the time set, then appointed a committee of respectable inhabitants of this town, to wait on Mr. Clark & Son, the two Messrs Hutchinsons, and Mr. Faneuil, reported to be the consignees, who were together at Mr. Clark's store, and acquaint them, that as they had neglected to attend, they should think themselves warranted in looking upon them as the enemies of the people; and having read the message to them, were pre-emptorily answered, that they should pay no regard to it, which the people (who were waiting in the street) being informed of by the committee, they were returning back to Liberty Tree, there to consult what steps were proper further to be taken. But some of them being irritated with the haughty manner with which the answer was said to be given, turned back and shewed some marks of their resentment, and then dispersed. — It is expected there will be another meeting of the people, to bring this matter to a conclusion, if it is not prevented by the above named gentlemen giving reasonable satisfaction to their fellow citizens and brother merchants, who are universally alarmed with their conduct.

On Friday last there was a very full Meeting of the Freeholders & other Inhabitants of this Town in Faneuil Hall, agreeable to a Notification issued by the Selectmen; when the Hon. JOHN HANCOCK, Esq; was chosen Moderator, and the Town after due Deliberation, came into the following Resolutions, viz.

WHEREAS it appears by an Act of the British Parliament passed in the last Session, that the East-India Company in London are by the said Act allowed to export their Teas into America, in such Quantities as the Lords of the Treasury shall judge proper: And some Persons with an evil Intent to amuse the People, and others thro' inattention to the true Design of the Act, have so construed the same, as that the Teas of three Pence on every Pound of Tea is not to be exacted by the detestable Task-Masters here. Upon the due Consideration thereof, Resolved, That the Sense of this Town cannot be better expressed, upon this occasion, than in the Words of certain judicious Resolves lately entered into by our worthy Brethren the Citizens of Philadelphia: Wherefore, Resolved, THAT the disposal of their own property is the inherent right of freemen; that there can be no property in that which another has, of right, take from us without our consent; that the claim of parliament to tax America, is, in other words, a claim of right to levy contributions on us at pleasure. (1)

II. That the duty imposed by parliament upon tea landed in America, is a tax on the Americans, or levying contributions on them without their consent.

III. That the express purpose for which the tax is levied on the Americans, namely, for the support of government, the administration of justice, and the defence of his Majesty's dominions in America, has a direct tendency to render assemblies useless, and to introduce arbitrary government and slavery.

IV. That a virtuous and steady opposition to this ministerial plan of governing America is absolutely necessary to preserve even the shadow of liberty, and is a duty which every freeman in America owes to his country, to himself, and to his posterity.

V. That the resolution lately come into by the East-India Company, to send out their tea to America, subject to the payment of duties on its being landed here, is an open attempt to enforce the ministerial plan, and a violent attack upon the liberties of America.

VI. That it is the duty of every American to oppose this attempt.

VII. That whoever shall, directly or indirectly, countenance this attempt, or in any wise aid or abet in unloading, receiving, or vending the tea sent, or to be sent out by the East-India Company, while it remains subject to the payment of a duty here, is an enemy to America.

8. That a Committee be immediately chosen to wait on those Gentlemen, who, it is reported, are appointed by the East India Company to receive and sell said tea, and request them, from a regard to their own character, and the peace and good order of the town & province, immediately to resign their appointment.

And the following Gentlemen, viz. the Moderator, Mr Henderson Inches, Benjamin Aubin and Jonathan Mason Esqrs; and the selectmen of the Town, were appointed a Committee accordingly.

At the same Time the Town passed the following Resolve, viz.

WHEREAS the Merchants of this Continent did enter into an Agreement to withhold the Importation of Teas, until the Duty laid thereon should be repealed; which Agreement, as we are informed, has been punctually observed by the respectable Merchants in the Southern Colonies; while by reason of the peculiar circumstances attending the Trade of this Place, some Quantities, though very small in proportion to what had been usual before said Agreement, have been imported by some of the Merchants here: And whereas it now appears probable to this Town, that the British Administration have taken encouragement even from such small Importations, to grant Licences to the East-India Company as aforesaid: Therefore Resolved, That it is the Determination of this Town, by all means in their Power, to prevent the Sale of the Teas exported by the East-India Company: And as the Merchants here have generally opposed this Measure, it is the just Expectation of the Inhabitants of this Town, that no one of them will on any pretence whatever, import any Tea that shall be liable to pay the Duty, from this Time and until the Act imposing the same shall be repealed.

And then the Town adjourned till three o'clock in the Afternoon.

At Three o'clock there was again a very full Assembly; and the Committee reported to the Town that they had waited on Richard Clarke, Esq; and Son, and Benjamin Faneuil, Esq; said to be Factors of the East-India Company, and communicated to them the Resolve of the Town, whereby they were requested immediately to resign their appointment. And that said Gentlemen informed the Committee, that as Messieurs Thomas and Elisha Hutchinson, (who were also reported to be Factors to the said Company) were at Milton, and not expected in Town till Saturday Evening, and as they chose to consult them, they could not return an answer to the Town till Monday Morning.

Then another Committee was chosen, viz. Mr. Samuel Adams, Mr. William Molineaux and Dr. Joseph Warren, to acquaint Messrs. Clarke and Mr. Faneuil, that as they were not joint Factors for the East-India Company with the Hutchinsons, it was supposed they could determine for themselves, and therefore it was the Expectation of the Town that they return an immediate Answer to the Message. And this Committee reported to the Town that an answer might be expected in Half an Hour.

A Motion was then made, that a Committee be appointed to repair to Milton, and acquaint Messrs. Thomas and Elisha Hutchinson with the Request of the Town, that they immediately resign their Appointment; and John Hancock, Esq; Mr. John Pitts, Mr. Samuel Adams, Mr. Samuel Abbot, Dr. Joseph Warren, Mr. William Powell, and Mr. Nathaniel Appleton, were appointed a Committee for that Purpose.

A Letter was brought into the Hall, signed by Richard Clarke and Son, and Benjamin Faneuil for himself and Joshua Winslow, and directed to the Moderator, to be communicated to the Town, viz.

Boston, Novem. 5, 1773.

SIR, IT is impossible for us to comply with the Request of the Town signified to us this Day by their Committee, as we know not what Terms the Tea, if any Part of it should be sent to our Care, will come out on, and what Obligations either of a moral or pecuniary Nature we may be under to fulfil the Trust that may be devolv'd on us. When we are acquainted with these Circumstances, we shall be better qualified to give a definitive Answer to the Request of the Town.

We are,
Sir, your most obedient Servants,
RICHARD CLARKE & SON,
BENJA. FANEUIL, jun. for Self, and
JOSHUA. WINSLOW, Esq;
Hon'ble JOHN HANCOCK, Esq; Moderator of a
Town-Meeting assembled at Faneuil-Hall.

This Letter was read, and unanimously voted to be not satisfactory to the Town. And then the Meeting was adjourn'd till the next Day at Eleven o'clock, to receive the Report of the Committee appointed to wait on the Hutchinsons.

The Town met by Adjournment on Saturday (the Meeting still continuing very full) and the Committee reported that they had seen Mr. Tho's Hutchinson only (his Brother being neither at Milton nor Boston) and that the Town might expect an Answer from him immediately.

The following Letter was sent in, to the Moderator, sign'd Tho's. Hutchinson: which was read and unanimously voted to be an unsatisfactory Answer, viz.

SIR, I KNOW nothing relative to the Tea referred to in the Request or Vote of the Town, except that one of my Friends has signified to me by Letter, that Part of it he had reason to believe would be consigned to me and my Brother jointly, but upon what Terms he could not then say. Under these Circumstances, I can give no other Answer to the Town at present, than that if the Teas should arrive, and we should be appointed Factors, we shall then be sufficiently informed to answer the Request of the Town.

I am for my Brother and Self,
Sir, Your humble Servant,
THO'S. HUTCHINSON, Jun.
Hon'ble JOHN HANCOCK, Esq; Moderator of a
Town-Meeting now assembled at Faneuil Hall.

It was then voted that the Letter sign'd Richard Clarke and Son, Benj. Faneuil for Self and Joshua Winslow, and also the Letter sign'd Tho's. Hutchinson, which had been read, were DARINGLY AFFRONTIVE to the Town; and the Meeting was IMMEDIATELY Dissolved. Vid. page 399.

At the Meeting of the Town on Friday last, a Number of printed Hand Bills were seen to be distributed in the Hall, called the "THE TRADESMEN PROTEST against the Proceedings of the MERCHANTS, relative to the new Importation of Tea," which was read by the Moderator at the Request of the Inhabitants. After the reading of which, it was openly declared by one of the Inhabitants, that he saw CHARLES PAXTON, one of the Commissioners of the Customs, giving them away the Day before in King Street. It was then desired that the Tradesmen present might collect in a Part of the Hall by themselves, that their Sense of the Paper might be taken. Accordingly the Question was put to them, Whether they acknowledged the said Paper called the Tradesmen Protest? Which pass'd unanimously in the Negative. They also by a subsequent unanimous Vote declared their Disavowal of the Paper, as being false, scandalous and base; and their Detestation of Charles Paxton, and others, who had distributed the Copies, as well as of E. Russell, who printed them. In the estimation of the Town there were at least four Hundred Tradesmen present in the Meeting.

It is supposed that the dirty Thing called the TRADESMEN PROTEST, was the Product of the Genius of the infamous CHARLES FROTH. (2)

Messrs Edes & Gill,

It is reported that a Company of Soldiers belonging to the Castle were seen marching armed towards this Town last Saturday a little before Sun-set, about four Miles off; and it is strongly suspected that they came into the Town in separate Gangs. It is certain that several of them have been since seen in different Parts of this Metropolis, brandishing their naked Weapons, and otherwise behaving in a most insolent Manner.—This is sufficient to raise the apprehension and Indignation of the Inhabitants.

DETERMINATUS.

Messrs Edes & Gill,

A poor man's widow saved a city. I am indebted to Mr. Clarke and his sons, to the two sons of Gov. Hutchinson, and more especially to Mr. FANEUIL, whose generous uncle gave us our hall of liberty. And I would earnestly intreat them all to yield without delay to the importunity of their fellow townsmen.—It may easily be done in a letter to the selectmen.

A POOR OLD MAN.

PHILADELPHIA, October 27.

We hear that the General Assembly of the Lower Counties have appointed a Committee of the House to correspond with the Committees of the other Houses of Representatives on the Continent, to inquire into the nature, &c. of the new Court opened at Rhode Island, for inquiring into the affair of the Gaspee Schooner; and to have a particular attention to all such acts of the Parliament, as may in any wise affect America.

We have the pleasure of acquainting the Public, that the Gentlemen appointed Agents by the East-India Company, for the Sale of their Teas in this Place, have wisely and virtuously determined to have nothing to do with so pernicious a business, while the Teas are subject to a Parliamentary Duty, for the Purpose of raising a Revenue to America.

NEWPORT, November 1.

Last Wednesday the honorable the General Assembly of this Colony met at South-Kingstown, and on Thursday a warrant was granted by the Speaker of the house of deputies for bringing Mr. GEORGE ROME before the house, on account of a certain letter some time since returned from England, signed G. ROME; and Saturday afternoon being brought to the house, and returning evasive answers to the questions put to him, the house deemed his conduct contempt, and he was, in consequence thereof, committed to his Majesty's goal in South Kingston, where he remained, until the house rose, which was between 8 and 9 o'clock on the evening of the same day.

BOSTON, November 2.

We are informed that one of the Tea Commissioners, after the encounter on Wednesday last said, that if they had been properly applied to they would all have resigned their appointment. Since which the Town in a very large legal meeting have applied to them, but that it seems is not the proper application.—Query—What kind of application is proper?

The Inhabitants of the Town of Salem have voted to have an inoculation Hospital for the Small-Pox, erected at the South East Corner of the Great Pasture in that Town.

There have been but 8 Persons taken down with the Small-Pox at Salem within a fortnight past, and they were removed to the Pest-House.

On Tuesday Evening last between 9 and 10 o'clock several Seafaring-Men belonging to an outward bound Vessel, went to the House of Capt. Josiah Beal, in Royal-Exchange Lane, where a number of People victualled and lodged; The Sailors being armed with Clubs and Cutlasses, bruised and cut the People greatly, one Man had his Head cut in so shocking a Manner that a Piece of his Skull-bone was taken out, as also his Arm cut and bruised terribly.—Mrs Beal was thrown out of a Window and much bruised, and her Daughter knocked down with a Club in the Yard while endeavouring to escape.—Capt. Beal and others after receiving several blows and cuts were obliged to jump out of the Windows to save their Lives; they then robbed the House of Cloaths, Linnen, Pewter, four Beaver Hats, and a Number of other Articles, which they carried off.—Warrants were issued out to apprehend the Villains, and four of them are taken and committed to Goal.

Last Saturday about 1 o'clock, a Soldier was seen at the South Part of this Town, with his Bayonet naked in his Hand, threatening to Fight, and calling upon any one to take his Weapon from him. But he was soon disarmed by an Inhabitant, who has his Bayonet now in his Possession.

About the same Time, two other Soldiers were seen in the same Part of the Town, one of them with a naked Cutlass in his Hand, with which he made a Pass at a Man in the Street, but luckily missed his aim.

A Soldier was Yesterday Morning observed with his naked Bayonet in his Hand, picking a Quarrel with one of the Inhabitants in Crooked Lane, near the Town House. Remember the fifth of March!
